The Grady-White Express 340 is built to take on big water with innovative new angling and cruising amenities.

GRADY REIMAGINES ITS POPULAR EXPRESS 330 WITH THE NEW 340

The new Grady-White Express 340 is a stunning successor to the popular Express 330. The 340 offers a big aft cockpit boasting two dive doors (with swim ladder), one on each side to ease boarding and landing big fish. The 30-gallon transom livewell in the starboard quarter will keep you well supplied with live bait. A 166-quart insulated transom fish box can be optioned as a freezer/refrigerator with digital thermostat. An 87-quart fish box in the port quarter includes a retractable freshwater washdown inside. A transom bench folds away when it's time for fishing action. The portside mezzanine incorporates a slide-out footrest for comfort and support while you watch trolling lines from four gunwale rod holders and optional 18-foot outriggers. Plus, the backrest folds down to create a work surface for rigging tackle. A summer galley can be optioned with a covered electric grill. Tackle drawers reside below, but you can replace them with an optional refrigerator. The bridge deck offers configurable seating and an electrically adjustable table to port, while the helm offers room for twin 19-inch MFDs, Yamaha Helm Master EX Full Maneuverability controls, and an electrically adjustable captain's chair. An expansive glass windshield and side windows integrate with the hardtop and rakish aft supports (with rod holders) for weather protection. The hardtop interior features overhead recessed rod stowage and indirect LED lighting. The cabin boasts hand-crafted cabinetry with fluted inlays, indirect lighting, and teak-and-holly sole. In addition to the convertible dinette/V-berth, Grady has opened up the aft-cabin berth for easier access and greater comfort. The full galley lets you easily prep meals during angling adventures, and the head now boasts a dedicated shower wand, as well as a super-wide mirror over the vanity with an equally huge cabinet behind it. Available with twin Yamaha 450s or triple Yamaha 350 outboards. To learn more, visit gradywhite.com.
